

Hampton's Legacy as seen from South King Street

Log canoes crowd a wintry Hampton River, a steamship docked in the background.

Native Americans lived in the area for thousands of years.
Engraving by Theodore deBry.

Moved to Hampton's waterfront from Buckroe Beach's vanished amusement park, the Carousel is a reminder of enjoyment by thousands of vacationing beachgoers.

Aspiring young astronauts gaze at the Apollo 12 space capsule in the Virginia Air & Space Center, which today looms over South King Street.
